

Mad Science at Urbandale Public Library
07/27/07

Kids watch fun experiments during the Mad Science Detective CSI program on Friday at Urbandale Public Library.

Mad Scientist Dan Chase of Des Moines' west side tells kids about the fun experiments he has planned for the Detective CSI program on Friday at Urbandale Public Library.

Grace Wilson, 5, of Urbandale raises her hand to ask a question during the Mad Science Detective CSI program on Friday at Urbandale Public Library.

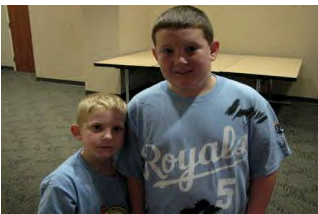

Andrew Lee, 7, of Johnston helps Mad Scientist Dan Chase with a science experiment on Friday at Urbandale Public Library.

Isaac Miller, 8, of Urbandale helps out with a science experiment using a laser during the Mad Science Detective CSI program at Urbandale Public Library on Friday.

Katrina Theisen, 9, of Urbandale watches fun science experiments during the Mad Science Detective CSI program at Urbandale Public Library on Friday.

Brothers, left, Adam Mitchell, 5, of Waukee and Aaron, 9, said they had fun learning about crime scene investigations at the Mad Science CSI program on Friday at Urbandale Public Library.

Left, Kelsey Theisen, 6, of Urbandale and Jasmin Lacey, 7, of Urbandale take a closer look at an experiment with ink and water during the Mad Science Detective CSI program at Urbandale Public Library on Friday.