

Pack 374 Cub Scouts meet the Mad Scientist

Cub Scout Pack 374 held their Oct. meeting at Pella United Methodist Church. The Mad Scientist from Des Moines - a group that puts on science demonstrations for kids - put on a criminal science investigation demonstration for the boys. The Mad Scientists were invited so that the boys could learn more about science in a fun and humorous way while helping them complete some of their achievements in the Sciences. The Scouts thank Dan, one of the Mad Scientists, for doing the lab experiments and the Methodist Church for the use of the church.

Pack Meetings are designed for scouts so that their families can also participate and be involved, including siblings that are not scouts. The November Pack meeting will be at the Pella indoor pool, and the boys will be earning their swimming and water safety achievements while learning about canoes and kayaks too! Families will then join in for family swim.
